Make Memories
in Allegany County, NY

In the Western NY Wilds, nearly 55,000 acres of state and county public lands invite sportsmen to roam the woods as generations have before them. A winding river, quiet streams, lakes and ponds offer peaceful places to cast a line, while autumn brings hunters to the hills to carry on time-honored traditions in the morning mist. Here, time slows, stories grow, and the simple rhythm of the outdoors feels just like it used to.

Pheasant Hunting in Allegany County

Allegany County's Pheasant Hunting Program took flight in 2008 and has since become a cherished part of the local hunting tradition, releasing nearly 1,000 pheasants each year. Today, nine stocking locations across the county, marked by a pheasant icon on the map, welcome hunters back to the fields season after season. Operated as an inmate work program through the Allegany County Sheriff's Office at the Belmont County Jail, the initiative not only supports rehabilitation efforts but also enriches tourism by expanding hunting opportunities for a broader community of sportsmen and women.
